The Story Of My Great Grandpa

My great grandpa Mark Robert Hontz, was born February 1 and died May 24 2019. He grew up in Lehighton, Pennsylvania and He married Barbra Hontz and they had 8 children. My grandpa was the second oldest.

We called my great grandpa Pop pop. My great grandpa wanted to go to school but he and his family did not have a lot of money and this was during world war II so he joined the air force. The air force paid for him to go to school and he became an electrical engineer. He wanted to be an electrical engineer because he was good at fixing things and liked helping people.

My great grandpa had lots of other things he liked to do like camping on the New Jersey seashore, crossword puzzles, church, traveling, and when he was older he was active in the lions club. Me and my great grandpa both really liked to help people, go to the beach, travel the world, and like school.

The most important and interesting things about my great grandpa are that he lived in four different houses in New Jersey due to his family and his job. The most important thing to him was being in the air force and helping the U-S-A!! He cared a lot about his country and loved protecting it. He also really liked having the whole family together, and when my grandma told me that it reminded me of the time the whole family was together for his 95th birthday. Some more memories I had about my great grandpa are when I gave him a big hug, going out to dinner with him, and collecting shark teeth at the New Jersey seashore.

I enjoyed learning about my great grandpa and remembering some memories I had with him. I am glad I wrote and learned about him.
