Photographer Adams will leave for Minersville Monday and those desiring photos will have to call before Sunday night, at which time he will close his studio and will not again open it till long late in the spring.

David Bulloch has been busy the past ten days hauling gravel on his sidewalks and around his home. He has his premises looking splendid and it will be a good thing for all people living in the town to emulate his example.

The free gym will be established in the new quarters in the Ward Hall annex within three weeks. The gymnasium board has instructed Mayor Woodbury and Coach Wilkinson to secure additional apparatus, and when this is received Cedar will have one of the most up-to-date gyms to be found in the state.

Several citizens have taken advantage of the splendid weather we have been having and are hauling gravel upon the sidewalks. If all would lead out in this laudible movement the town would soon be in such a condition that pedestrians could travel anywhere within the corporate limits without sinking to their ankles in mud.

Sheriff Orton was in Cedar last Saturday and took from our midst one of our number. It seems the district court judge had some thing to say to said citizen and consequently sent for him. What the nature of the conversation was is not learned, but the citizen was allowed to come back and is again seen on the streets as usual.

Geo. Stoll returned from Richfield Tuesday evening and reports the outlook for his going to that place and taking charge of the Johnson Hotel as good. He is offering his place of business for sale and if he can dispose of it he will immediately move to Richfield and take charge. He has been offered a good salary and feels that it will be to his interest to take the position.

Word has been received from Parowan that several cases of illegal liquor selling has been found and the guilty persons punished. In fact it is reported that the punishment was so severe that at least one of the offenders decided to shake the dust of Parowan from his feet and his himself to pastures new. The friends of prohibition of that berg seemed determined to have a dry down.

A rather disagreeable performance happened outside the Ward Hall last Tuesday evening while the dance was in progress. It appears that two young men were there and badly under the influence of intoxicants. They became so boisterous that their arrest was ordered. Upon this they became enraged and used some very foul language, and also resisted the officers in their duty. They resisted so strenuously that it was necessary to secure assistance and several deputies were forced into active duty. With the help of several men they were finally conquered and bodily packed to the jail where they spent the night. Three charges were placed against them, drunk and disorderly, using profane and obscene language, and resisting the officers in the performance of their duty. Next day they appeared before the justice and were fined $60 and $35.

John Jensen is still improving slowly.

The Sheep Store has been making extra endeavors to decorate the display windows, and have succeeded to such an extent that words of praise and commendation is heard from all the ladies who have had the privilege of seeing them.

John Nelson and his father and daughter Mame, left last Saturday for the north. They first went to Santaquin where they spent a few days with relatives and friends. After a visit there they went on to Salt Lake and will spend sometime with Charlie Nelson, brother to John, and meet acquaintances and friends.

The Mercantile is kept pretty busy these days. One would have thought that after the sale that all citizens would have been supplied with sufficient goods to last them several months. But this is not the fact. They seem to be short of some things and are continually coming after them. All the clerks, but "Hele" are kept busy in the above mentioned establishment. He simply has nothing else to do but ride around town each day and deliver a few goods to the various customers.

Geo. Stoll was arrested Wednesday for allowing the boys of the town to shake dice in his establishment. He has been allowing this for some time, but before commencing it he asked Marshall Bryant if there was an ordinance against it, and received reply in the negative. However the new Marshall thought otherwise and caused the arrest of Mr. Stoll who appeared Wednesday evening before Justice Leigh and was fined in the sum of $10. Mr. Stoll immediately gave notice of appeal.

U. T. Jones has returned from the metropolis where he was sent by the Commercial Club to meet with Ep. Andrus of St. George, the two to meet with the railroad officials and make effort to influence them to build their proposed new railroad this way instead of down the Meadow Valley Wash. What success the gentleman has had we have not learned. No doubt the Commercial Club will meet and Mr. Jones given an opportunity of telling the members what they may expect from the Salt Lake Route officials.

City Marshal Clark arrested two men the first part of the week for shaking dice in the Royal Cafe and Bakery. It seems that they wanted some candy, and as it had been customary for some time past for the boys to shake dice to see who paid for candy or cigars, they thought it was permissible and consequently were engaged in this pastime when the marshal happened to step in. He immediately confiscated the candy and dice and told the men to appear before the justice. They did so and Wednesday evening appeared before him and were fined $1 each.

Commercial Club Members. Take Notice.

The Commercial Club will meet in the City Hall tomorrow evening at 7:30 for the purpose of hearing the report of U. T. Jones, who went to Salt Lake to investigate the railroad proposition.
