

Noted Author Visits Cedar

The Carnegie Library has just been honored by a visit from Frederick S. Dellenbaugh of New York City and author of "Breaking the Wilderness" and "The Romance of the Colorado River" contributing in a most fascinating manner to the history of Utah and the West. He is one of the survivors of Major Powell's second expedition down the Colorado River in 1871-72. Mr. Dellenbaugh passed through the tunnel and over the new Zion-Mt. Carmel road, and is on his way to Los Angeles where he attends court in session today on the case of Federal Government versus the State of Utah concerning the ownership of the Colorado River bed.
