

Local Scenic Spots Feature Picture "Thunderhead"

The motion picture "Thunderhead" (Son of Flicka) now showing at the Parks theatre and filmed in southern Utah shows the scenery of this area to better advantage than probably any picture ever produced here.

The picture was filmed with the new mono-pack film in natural color with amazing results. The story is a pleasing one and holds the interest of the movie fan, but even so the greatest attraction the picture has to offer is its remarkable scenic views. Certainly such films when advertised as produced in So. Utah will focus the attention of people all over the United States on the scenic attractions of this area and create a desire to see the Parks. Such advertising has tremendous value, and should do much to bring tourist travel to this area after the war.

The picture "Thunderhead" is filled with unusual views of Zion and Bryce Canyon National Parks, Navajo Lake, Duck Creek and many other beauty spots on Cedar mountain.
