The Loving Joyce K, Thorson Morgan

My great grandma Joyce K, Thorson Morgan was a very caring and always generous person. For her family, it was hard to live when she was born because she was born during the Great Depression. Joyce had to live in a house in Provo with only two rooms and twelve siblings and both of her parents.

Joyce named her first daughter Pamla Joyce Morgan. Pamla is my grandma Pam, my grandma Pam named her first daughter Laura Joyce Hendrex. Laura is my mom, she named me Leighton Joyce Leavitt. I have always wondered why my grandma, mom, and me have Joyce as our middle name, and now I know!

My great grandma Joyce became a nurse in the air force during World War II where she met my great grand father who was a pilot in the air force. They fell in love and got married in 1950. Then they had five children, four boys and one daughter. The daughter is my grandmother Pamla.

Her family had a private plane. Joyce's husband would fly them to vacation spots like Florida and Utah, even when she was afraid to fly. After her kids grew up she worked in the ER while her husband was still a pilot, just not in the air force.

There are lots of things me and my great grandma have in common. We both like turtles and dancing. We also love to read.

Joyce liked to collect mice figurines. When she was alive, someone was sending her live turtles. The mail man would stay at her mailbox just to make sure that the turtles stayed alive! She was a nice person. She would help with medical advice to whoever needed it, so I know that she was very kind.

My great grandma Joyce K, Thorson Morgan's birthday was on July 30, 1924 she was a nice and fun person and she let her family know she loved them, and I know I love her even if I didn't meet her, but I know she would love me too.
